

Uniface Details its Mobile Strategy and Roadmap during North American User Group Event

(Original creator: chillebrink)

Other Conference Highlights Include Keynotes from Forrester Research and Uniface 10 Workshops

Uniface is hosting its annual North American user conference in Las Vegas this week, which brings together its many users from across the United States. During the conference, Uniface will detail its mobile strategy to create cross platform mobile applications; and how it can help address the current opportunities and challenges of developing mobile apps. Mike Gualtieri, Principal Analyst, Forrester Research will add to the discussion with two keynote presentations – ‘Mobile Is the Norm, Now Innovation Must Begin’ and ‘The Future of Application Development’. It is an information packed agenda with sessions updating attendees on the ‘new’ Uniface, customer presentations, Uniface 10 workshops, a speed networking event and much more.

This event kicks off a Uniface world tour to help customers address the pressing challenge of mobile development with events in Germany, the Netherlands, Mexico and Japan scheduled this year and other locations in the planning.